Good teams have many characteristics such as trust, respect, clarity, flexibility, tradition, innovation and a sense of fun. Resilient teams not only have these characteristics, but also have the ability both navigate and bounce back from difficult moments.

Participants will learn:

- Navigation: a guide for team renewal.
- Five traits of resilient vs. dysfunctional teams.
- Dynamics of trust.
- A process for appreciating individual and group strengths.
- Patterns of conflict.
- How to prevent and clear up misunderstandings.
- How to manage differences and resolve conflict.
- A process to create team expectations and commitments together, with a recovery plan on how to address (prevent, manage and resolve) challenges and conflict.
