QNET presents:

Emotional Intelligence

Thursday, March 21, 2013 – 8:15 a.m. to 4:15 p.m.

Location: QNET – Suite 660, 175 Hargrave Street, Winnipeg

Research shows that emotional intelligence can be twice as important as IQ and technical skills in determining who will become a top performer. Learn to use EI for professional and personal development, to build a high-performance team and to discover your next “star” performer! This workshop will include:

- What is emotional intelligence (EI) and why should I be interested in it?
- The case for self-awareness and self-management: Don't be one of the “smart” people who fail!
- Use the new EQ-i 2.0 Model to analyze your emotional intelligence.
- Determine how EI can be used for leadership development, personal development, performance management, coaching, building high performing teams, selection, retention and career development.
- Receive the results of the new EQ-i 2.0 Inventory. You are not required to share the details of the report in the session.
- Review tools and strategies to enhance your emotional intelligence to improve your career development.

The new EQ-i 2.0 brings you the most advanced and thoroughly researched measure of emotional intelligence in the assessment industry, yielding more powerful insights than ever before.
