QNET presents:

Ethics and Performance – Two half day workshops

Location: QNET – Suite 660, 175 Hargrave Street, Winnipeg

Improve your effectiveness and enhance your professional development with these interactive half day workshops designed to provide practical and immediately applicable learning for individuals and teams.

Ethical Decision Making

Thursday, December 12 - 8:15 a.m. to 11:45 a.m.

More than ever before individuals are faced with issues of collaboration, trust and ethical decision making in the workplace. It can be difficult to master since ethics and collaboration are often counter-intuitive behaviours that need to be practiced, developed and matured. Incorporating the classic activity the 'prisoner's dilemma' and participant examples, participants will:

- Work through scenarios that demonstrate the impact and consequences of individual choices on collaboration and ethics;
- Determine the true impact of behaviour and the relevance of ethics in decision making;
- Understand the full consequence of ethical issues in terms of risks to themselves, others, and society.

Building Blocks for Top Performance

Thursday, December 12 – 12:45 p.m. to 4:15 p.m.

They are all around us and we might not even know it, we might even be one of them - a top performer in waiting. Key to top performance is the ability to bring all of the right skills, knowledge and behaviours together at just the right time. At this thought-provoking, interactive session, participants will explore the world of top performers and top performance, including:

- Find your skills and learn to leverage them – we may know what we do well, but do we know what we might be great at?
- Creating foundations for top performance – beyond technical skills and knowledge, top performers have other skills that drive their performance.
