QNET presents:

Practical Strategies for Building Delegation Skills

Monday, October 3, 2016 – 12:45 p.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Location: QNET – Suite 660, 175 Hargrave Street, Winnipeg

Delegation is part of good management and is integral to developing the organization's most important resource. However, fears, myths, habits and unsuccessful delegation experiences often hinder us.

Find out why it is important to delegate, what stops us from delegating and how to delegate effectively with teams and individuals.

At this half day workshop you will:

- Learn about the role of delegating at different levels in the organization.
- Review how effective delegation enhances performance management, leadership and employee engagement.
- Gain practical strategies for building delegation skills.

Facilitator: Lesley Lindberg is the principal in Lindberg Consulting, a firm that offers services in strategic planning, project planning, team building, change management and program evaluation. Lesley has a long history of working in organizational development and a reputation for providing challenging programs that deliver results. With 25 years of training and consulting experience, she is well practiced in developing and delivering training material and bringing it alive in challenging, practical and relevant ways. She has led organizational change projects, developed and delivered train the trainer programs and provided coaching and mentoring services. Lesley has a background in Educational Psychology, is a Past President of the Project Management Institute and a past board member of the Manitoba Society for Training and Development.
